BÖTTCHER & KAYSER

Moritz Böttcher and Nikolaus Kayser say: "Daily life is accompanied by design. It is an expression of personality and a reflection of society and cultural history. We see opportunities and room for improvements, new interpretations and solutions in everyday life difficulties. Our goal is to create simple, yet original products, that solve a complex task in a subtle, functional way. It is essential that all techniques, materials and aesthetics work together. We like designs that disrupt triviality and have a touch of restrained presence in their existence."

CARLOS TISCAR

Carlos Tiscar holds a degree in industrial design from the school of applied arts in Valencia, major in industrial design. He lives in Italy where he also graduated from the Scuola Politecnica di Design di Milano. His professional career started in as a member of the industrial design group Factoría and later on, as a partner of the consulting firm Gesto Design Management. In 1993, he founded his own studio, Tiscar Design, and his field of expertise is home, office and contract furniture, as well as urban furniture and homeware.

C.F. MØLLER ARCHITECTS

C.F. Møller Architects is one of Scandinavia's leading architectural firms, with 90 years of award-winning work in the Nordic region and worldwide. Every day we create architectural quality based on innovation, experience and Nordic values. This assures sustainable and aesthetic solutions with lasting value for clients, occupants and society.

GEJST DESIGN TEAM

Focusing on functional design and high quality materials, Gejst takes a normal product, looks at the need to be fulfilled, then strips it down to come up with something thrilling. Multifunctional and thought through to the smallest detail, you decide the final design and how it will be used.

Each design is a testament to this approach and it is our way of bringing gejst into homes all around the world

JOHANSEN & FAURSCHOU

Johansen Faurischou was established in 2012 by Anita Johansen and Laura Faurischou, both graduates from The Royal Danish Academy of Fine Arts, Schools of Architecture, Design and Conservation. Their ambition is to create products with a long-lasting expression through a precise and effortless style focusing on the function.

KASPER FRIIS EGELUND

Kasper Friis Egelund lives in Copenhagen. Despite a young age, Kasper has already done projects for international and Danish companies.

Kasper Friis Egelund about design:

"I see design as a main factor in our daily lives, as something which has a huge impact on our well being. Which is why it in my opinion is extremely important as a designer to have in mind what a design does to its environment and user. With this as my background for my design process, I try to balance a more pragmatic and investigating approach, combined with a fact based starting point to develop design which creates higher value. With main inspiration from architecture, graphic design & art, I try to create an original design with a Scandinavian expression but still being graphic and minimalistic"

MICHAEL REM

Michael says: "Being a designer means absorbing all of the daily influences that life offers endlessly, and consciously experiencing it. All the sounds, colours, forms and events are mixed together in the subconscious with your personality and emotions, so that all of this can be combined to form something new: A new idea which is extracted from the absorbed old and comes back to the surface of the conscious as images of new products. This is what I term the new simple."

NOERGAARD & KECHAYAS

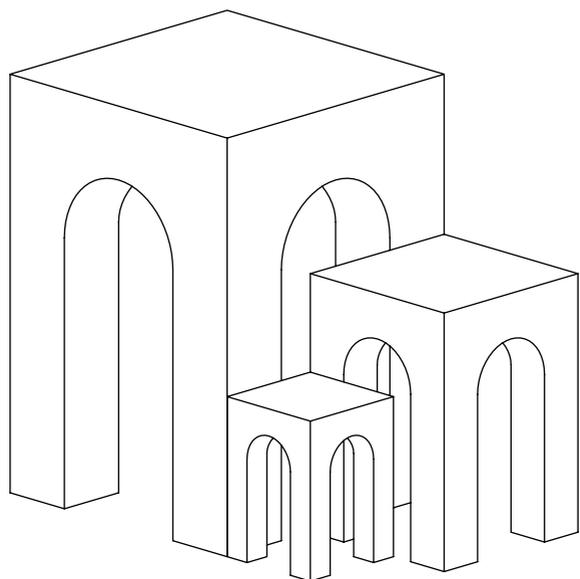

Martin Kechayas and Christian Nørgaard are both graduates from The Danish School of Design. They founded Noergaard-Kechayas in 2009, working within the fields of industrial, furniture and lighting design. They aim to design products with a strong visual appeal and innovative technical solutions.

ARKIS

by Kasper Friis Egelund

Arkis is three marble objects designed to either function as a bookend or just sculptural pieces for the home. Inspired from the many arches of Classicism and Neoclassicism the design is especially influenced by the beautiful Palazzo della Civiltà Italiana in Rome. To create further depth in the design, the golden ratio has been used, which applies to the gradual down scaling of the three objects. This scaling creates interesting vistas through the objects when placed together. The design is thought to be either three individual pieces or one joined object.

GALET

by Böttcher & Kayser

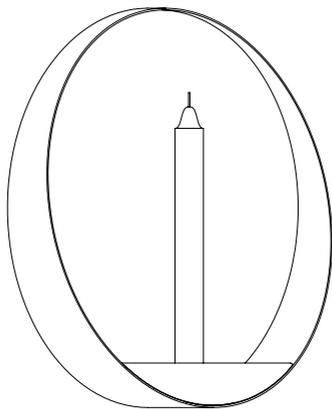

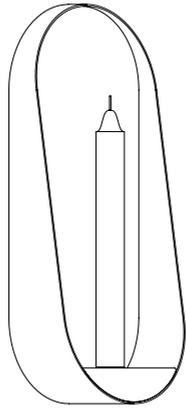

Galet is a set of three different sized ceramic bowls and a wooden cutting board, designed by German design duo Böttcher & Kayser. Galet is inspired by the pebbles that are polished, softened and rounded by the persistent movement of the ocean waves. All parts of the set are carried out in organic shapes, that complement each other both visually and functionally. The ceramic bowls fit perfectly in to each other and are also made to fit the edge of the cutting board. This detail makes it pleasingly easy to slide the freshly cut herbs or grinded parmesan in to the bowl.

GLIM

by Böttcher & Kayser

GLIM is a wall hanged candle mirror designed by Böttcher Kayser for Gejst. The mirror amplifies the light and is a function inspired by old lanterns. GLIM is a decorative and contemporary candle holder to fix at the wall. Made of painted steel and mirror glass, crooked cut from the side so the candle is free to burn. It captures the Danish atmosphere of “hygge” perfectly while giving a cozy effect mirroring the candlelight. Perfect to implement in a picture wall, to install alone or in a cluster in the Livingroom, entrance, office or bedroom.

KOLLAGE

by Michael Rem

Kollage is inspired by the French cleat system, that is often to be found in old-fashioned craftsmen workshops. Michael Rem has given new life to the classical principle, that is based on one single element as a recurring motif. Kollage is characterised by a distinctive hook, which serves as starting point for all the remaining hanging objects in the collection: a mirror, a shelf and a planter. The original organising system has been rethought, taken out of the dusty garages and brought in to the design world. Place the hooks, mirror, shelf and planter how you like and create a collage of useful and decorative items.

LEERY

by Kasper Friis Egelund

Leery is a table lamp designed by Kasper Friis Egelund for Gejst. Pure round shapes (ball and cylinder) creates this quite minimalistic but still characteristic lamp. To emphasize the simple design approach, an honest and almost obvious “pull-out” of the cord, is made. To balance the lamp a concrete piece is placed on the back, to keep it upright. An E27 socket is fitted inside the lamp shell. The raw industrial look fits perfectly in to the Gejst universe. The Leery lamp embraces and protects the light, therefore the name Leery.

MOLEKYL

by Michael Rem

Consisting of a metal pipe, magnetic sphere and numerous steel balls, Molekyl is a unique candleholder that plays with materials, magnets, shapes and individuality all at the same time. The final design of Molekyl is unfinished, with the ultimate shape decided by you. As all of the elements are held together with a magnet that are powerful enough to interact through non-magnetic materials, unique objects are created that seem to challenge the traditional laws of physics. Use the candleholder as a centerpiece on the table or on the windowsill. The essence of Molekyl is individuality and personalised creation.

M O M E N T T

by Böttcher & Kayser

The Momentt wall clock is inspired by the idea of overcoming time limits, experiencing it more than a feeling and displaying it in a poetic way.

Momentt consists of a funnel-shaped, matt steel housing with a diffused front glass. With Momentt, time seems to blur with space and the hands magically disappear into the depth of the center of the clock. Momentt is therefore not just a technical display of time, but rather a poetic object that makes us think about time and yet visualizes the time in a subtle way.

NEBL

by Michael Rem

A blanket of fog covers the streets, dewdrops decorate tips of grass and a massive silence prevails. The nature seems luxuriant and full of life, and at the same time it feels like everything has just stopped. These emotions are captured in Nebl: an intuitive and innovative planter that salutes unity and simplicity. Nebl consists of two parts: A ceramic base in which the plant is placed, and a frosted glass that is placed on the base. The matte finish of the glass adds an exclusiveness and tactility to Nebl, that makes it hard not to get intrigued.
